Using SPR: Practice Situations

1. A $1-$2 game with a $5 bring-in. You ($600) are dealt 8♦ 7♣ 6♦ 6♥ in the big blind. Three players limp in. The small blind limps. You call. The flop comes Q♣ Q♦ 6♠, giving you the underfull. The small blind checks. You bet $25. The next player folds. The player behind him ($350) calls. The next player ($550) raises to $125. The small blind folds. What do you do?

Answer: Fold. This is both a re-raise or fold situation and a classic small-favorite/big-dog scenario in which you are up against two players with at least trip queens. The effective SPR is 22, as it will likely cost you $550 (the size of the aggressor's stack) to see the hand through, and $550/$25 (the size of the pot on the flop) equals 22, making this a high-SPR scenario.

If neither opponent has Q-6 for the overfull, you might be a small equity favorite if you re-raise all-in and one or both opponents call. However, one
